Incident At Bar Touches Off Crowd

Rock Throwers And Arsonists Get Into Act

By JIM SHANAHAN
BH City Editor

A second consecutive night of violence in Benton Harbor was marked by fire bombings and a barrage of rocks tossed at cars along the city's east side Sunday evening and early today.

The home of Municipal Judge Elizabeth Forhan was fire-bombed for the second time this year. Sunday night's attack burned a chair and rug, filling the house with smoke and causing slightly more damage than a bombing last April in the aftermath of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

Also hit by fire was the office of Justice of the Peace Leo (Doc) Price at 904 Territorial road, Benton township. Firemen called it possible arson with extensive damage to the interior.

VARIOUS FIRES

Four other fires of incendiary origin were reported in the city. Fire bombs ignited floor tile at Benton Harbor junior high school, a house at 310 Colby street was scarred by fire bombs; a vacant house at 166 South Fair avenue was damaged extensively; and Superior Food Services, 400 Highland avenue, received slight damage to its roof from a fire bomb.

Benton township firemen said a door at Royal Blue store, 101 South Fair avenue, was burned slightly. Siding was damaged on a home at 150 Cornelia street when a bottle of gas was smashed.

Two bottles of gas and fuel oil were found in the yard of Mayor Wilbert Smith, whose home also was a target for fire bombers in April.

No injuries or looting were reported Sunday night. Six persons were arrested Sunday night compared to 35 in a series of disturbances that began shortly after midnight Saturday and continued for three hours.

ROVING BANDS

Violence Sunday night was committed while small bands roamed the Negro area of the city, concealing themselves behind trees and bushes.

When groups collected, they were under police order to disperse or go to jail. About 100 policemen patrolled the city and township last night with 150 state troopers in reserve.

Part of Fair avenue was closed to traffic because of rock-throwing. Merchants heeded police advice to close early.

The disturbances early Sunday morning involved crowds estimated by police as high as 500 persons. They collected near a tavern at 161 East Main street after a disputed fracas during which blows were exchanged between a Negro youth and the owner of Babe's lounge, among others. Patrons are mostly white but non-white patrons are also regularly served.

Negroes attending a dance at the Tri-Cap youth center in the next block converged on the tavern. Under police orders, they slowly moved east on Main street to Morton park where bottles and rocks were thrown at police cars.

CROWD GATHERS

The crowd then went to Main and Fair avenue on the city limits where about 200 congregated on the street and in the driveway of a service station. Most of the arrests were made here, including Maurice Bishop, 38, head of the Benton Harbor branch of the Southern Christian Leadership conference, who was charged as a disorderly person and with resisting arrest.

Police squads then cleared the area with riot sticks. Three officers were bruised when struck by rocks or glass.

Some 100 police from five departments were involved in the operation—Benton Harbor, Berrien county sheriff's officers, Benton township, St. Joseph and state police.

City police were called to Babe's lounge at 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Sgt. Jack Weatherly (See back page, sec. 1, col. 5)

BOMBED AGAIN: Benton Harbor Municipal Judge Elizabeth Forhan (right) smiles courageously after her home at 428 Maple street was hit Sunday by fire bomb for second time this year. Miss Forhan fought fire herself just as she did last time. With Miss Forhan is her cousin, Mrs. Grace Murphy.

OFFICER STRUCK: Benton Harbor Sgt. Jack Weatherly was struck by a missile while attempting to control crowd at Main street and Fair avenue. Weatherly is assisted by unidentified officer, Sheriff Henry Griese and Capt. Keith Mills. Weatherly, just recovering from a broken wrist sustained in an accident at home, was bruised in the groin.

Dukesherer In 'Fair' Condition

Elderly Woman
Hit By Assailant

A prominent Benton township fruit farmer, Parker E. Dukesherer, 69, lay in "fair" condition early today in South Bend Memorial hospital with a head wound after a masked intruder shot him and struck his wife in their home about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Dukesherer, of route 2, box 462, Highland avenue, was wounded at the doorway of his bedroom when he faced an intruder who had entered the unlocked home and roused Dukesherer's wife, Hazel, 70, from her bed in a separate bedroom nearby, Benton township police said.

EMPTY SHELL FOUND
Dukesherer was shot in the face and a spent .22-caliber cartridge case was discovered in the hallway separating the two bedrooms, according to Patrolmen James Lester and Thomas Carnegie.

The intruder, a thin man in gray work clothes with a handkerchief over his face, fled out the front door and could not be located.

Police gave this account from Mrs. Dukesherer:

"The intruder entered the unlocked house and ordered Mrs. Dukesherer out of bed. She grabbed the barrel of his gun and began yelling, which roused Dukesherer in a separate bedroom a few feet away.

Dukesherer removed an empty, cased shotgun from his closet.

WOMAN HIT

The intruder told Mrs. Dukesherer to shut up, struck her on the right side of the face, shot Dukesherer at the doorway of his bedroom, and fled.

Police said they checked the immediate area and Dukesherer

JACKSON (AP)—A 21-year-old Jackson man was reportedly shot in the forehead at point-blank range Sunday night and escaped serious injury.

Police said Chester A. Johnson was shot with a .22 caliber pistol following an argument on a Jackson street with O'Dell Boyce, 27, and his brother Larry Boyce, 17, both of Battle Creek.

Officers said Johnson was also cut slightly on the throat. He was treated and released from a nearby hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Johnson survived the gunshot because the bullet hit the hardest part of his skull and ricocheted off.

The Boyces were held for questioning, police said. Both are in the Jackson County Jail.

A crowd of about 200 persons gathered when police arrived, but it dispersed without incident, police said. However, police reported at least seven persons were arrested as a result of racial trouble that hit the city for the second straight day.

Police said they arrested one Jackson man who fired a pistol out the window of a car in the vicinity of the Johnson shooting. Several rock and bottle throwing incidents were also reported in the area, resulting in a few arrests.

No Need For God Says Prince Philip

WALLASEY, England (AP)—An Anglican curate accused Prince Philip Sunday of talking "the most arrogant nonsense I have heard for many a year."

Queen Elizabeth's husband, speaking last week at a conference on "The Countryside in 1970," said mankind is now in a position to dominate nature with synthetic materials and spare part surgery. Mankind has made itself independent of God, he said, adding, "It is not arrogant to say this. It is realism."

But the Rev. Bernard Elsdon told his congregation of 150 at St. Hilary's Parish Church:

"It is my opinion it was not realistic—it was arrogant. Twice in his speech Prince Philip used the word dominate. Is this a power complex, I wonder? Does the Duke really put God in a back seat as he seems to?"

The curate said he felt it his duty as a Christian minister to condemn the Prince's views.

BACK PORCH BLAZE: A small fire burned at the rear of Judge Forhan's house as arsonists also attacked the front with a fire bomb. (Staff photos)

COURT RECORDS BURNED: Apparent arson at the office of St. Joseph township Justice of the Peace Leo Price caused most of his court records to burn and considerable fire and smoke damage to the rest of the building at 904 Territorial road, Benton township. Firemen said there was evidence of forceable entry. Justice Price said he may set up office in the vacant building at 900 Territorial road a building he once used as a hardware store. (Staff photo)

Violence Is Free Flowing

When angered, an Englishman by custom works out his aggression by reaching for a pen so that he can write a stinging letter to the London Times. Incidents involving physical violence are uncommon, indeed, in the British Isles. The fear now is that growing violence around the world will spill over to England.

Students at Oxford recently scuffled with police in an uncharacteristic defiance of uniformed authority. In a subsequent poll by the London Evening Standard, 48 per cent of those questioned said it was

Good Neighbors

It's a good thing for France that her Common Market partner countries are not headed by men like De Gaulle.

France is in a very tight financial spot right now, and has had to institute some economy measures to combat inflation. Among them are some new import controls which violate Common Market agreements.

The five other Common Market countries are accepting these controls, although the measures are going to hurt them.

While the five countries feel that France is going overboard in making the controls too stringent, they fear that without import controls, France would have to devalue the franc. That would cause worldwide repercussions.

So, in the interest of French and world economy, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg are going along with the French plan.

If one of those countries were headed by DeGaulle, he would not have been guided by such altruistic considerations. He would have shrugged, said it was the other country's own fault for getting in such a mess, and held out for plans that would have meant the most benefit to this own country.

De Gaulle did it with the United States as Washington wrestled with the balance of payments; he did it with Britain when it devalued the pound.

The other Common Market countries are doing the right thing, of course. Isn't De Gaulle fortunate that his neighbors don't do as he says, or does?

Youth's Impact

Salesmen, Madison Avenue soothsayers, and market analysts take note: The government says you are pointing your talents in the wrong direction. It is not the housewife, the homeward bound husband or the weekend shopper who accounts for consumer sales.

It is the inhabitant of classrooms, the person who has not yet stepped into the world of reality and work who controls the pursestrings.

Men still stop at the neighborhood store on their way home from work and women haven't stopped shopping for new hats and dresses, but the ranks of workers are in danger of being overtaken by those of school age. More than one of every four Americans heads for the classroom each morning instead of the factory, the office or the store.

The balance is expected to continue to tip in favor of youth and the student in the years ahead.

Government economists, fascinated by the economic impact of the student, have produced comprehensive statistics and estimates to prove what appears to be their contention that the nation is changing from a working population to one largely dedicated to the pursuit of theory and fact. They may be right.

"likely" Britain could have the same kind of violence and trouble that swept France. Some 44 per cent said it was unlikely and 8 per cent didn't know.

Crimes against property rather than against people remain the norm. Pickpockets have been a constant threat in London since the days of Fagin. Londoners also find they must guard against skillful home burglaries carried out while the owners are at work or weekending.

Thanks to one of the world's strictest gun control laws, crimes involving firearms are rare, and punishment severe. Several youths caught firing a nonlethal air rifle at cattle received three-month jail sentences a few weeks ago. But offenses of violence against the person went up 7.6 per cent last year. Sir Eric St. Johnston, Chief Inspector of Constabulary, observes that the violent crimes figures "clearly illustrate deterioration in social behavior."

Concern is being voiced about a wave of street violence in Glasgow, Scotland, that in many ways resembles the mindless, pointless violence reported in America's big cities. Some 1,466 crimes of violence were reported in Glasgow in 1967, double those of five years earlier. Twelve persons were killed and 256 others stabbed or slashed.

The British Broadcasting Corporation's "24 Hours" program, a kind of CBS Reports show, quoted a Scotsman as saying that, "It's not the fiber but the Clyde that is flowing with blood." In some of Glasgow's big housing developments, young gangs are operating on the "West Side Story" tradition, even to the enforcement of boundary lines. Youths join "tiny gangs" at age 8 or 9, and graduate at 16 to full-fledged gangs like the "Tois" or "Rebels."

In a recent eight-day sitting, Glasgow's High Court handed down sentences totaling 83 years to 18 youths, mostly for crimes of violence in the street. There is talk of the need to reintroduce the birch as a legal punishment.

Glasgow is reputed to have a tradition of violence and hard drinking, a legacy of the worst abuses of the industrial age. Social scientists find significance in the fact that it remains the worst housed city in Western Europe.

Now plans are under way to build a community center and to license more pubs to give young men some sense of place. One Glasgow magistrate suggests the use of street workers modeled after the experience of the VISTA volunteers in U.S. urban areas. Schools must be improved so that half-day sessions can be eliminated. A bigger police force is required as well, and no one knows where money for all the needs is to be found.

To the American, Glasgow's plight has a familiar ring. But there is a hopeful aspect, too. If violence in the white slums of Glasgow can be reduced by correcting educational and housing ills, then isn't this the answer for the violence in the black ghettos of America as well? The apparent lesson of Glasgow is that urban violence has its roots in socio-economic, not racial, grievances.

Family Fashions

New York fashion authorities claim the battle of the sexes has ended in a draw. Men and women, they say, can wear the same clothes, jewelry and perfumes, and share handbags and hair-dressers.

They call the concept "unisex." Many challenge the decision. They say the women have won.

They can remember the day when a man was socially acceptable with a bath, suit and a small clip designed to keep his tie out of the soup. Now the well dressed male sets forth with enough costume, coiffure, attar and ornament to rig out the Queen of Sheba.

If husband and wife fit the same sizes, there would be certain economies in all this. Otherwise men would be the losers in the unisex game.

An elephant may indeed be frightened by a mouse, the National Geographic Society says. A herd may actually stampede when one of its members is startled by a sound that it cannot immediately identify.

COUNTY TO PAY HALF OF WIDENING PORT ST.

—10 Years Ago—
The Berrien county board of supervisors voted to pay half of the $12,880 cost of widening and paving Port street from Wayne to Church streets in St. Joseph—the north boundary of the courthouse — and at the same time recommended that the city make Port a one-way west-bound street.

Previously the city had asked the county board to consider sharing the cost of widening Port street by five feet, which apparently would cost the county some of the trees on the court house tree lawn. The vote was 32 to 3.

Wrong Medicine

Given a prescription for her arthritis, a woman took it to the corner drug store to be filled. But the druggist mixed a wrong ingredient into the medicine. As a result, the woman suffered a severe reaction — and later filed suit for damages.

But the court held the druggist liable anyhow, blaming

TRUST PRUDENCE

By and large, pharmacists are held to a standard of care commensurate with the importance of their ancient profession. As one judge put it: "People trust not merely their health but their lives to the knowledge, care and prudence of druggists."

For that reason, the pharmacist who is careless in filling a prescription is usually responsible for the consequences. There have been damage verdicts not only for wrong ingredients but also for incorrect proportions and for misleading directions.

On the other hand, even when a druggist does make a mistake, he is not liable if there is no causal connection between his mistake and the ultimate injury. Take this case:

A druggist sold a customer a powerful purgative, without properly labelling the bottle. The customer, well aware of what he had bought, mischievously slipped some into a friend's coffee.

MUST SHOW REGARD

For the unhappy consequences to the friend, the druggist was held blameless. The court pointed out that his faulty label had no connection with what happened, because the prankster would have done the same thing even if the label had been right.

Furthermore, a customer must show a reasonable regard for his own safety. In another "wrong medicine" case, the customer made his purchase from a young, inexperienced clerk while the regular pharmacist was out of the store.

Here the clerk, after bringing out a bottle, confessed that he didn't know what he was selling. Nevertheless the customer insisted the medicine must be what he wanted because it "smelled right."

A court ruled afterward that the customer himself was guilty of negligence, for buying medicine by using his nose instead of by using his head.

DR. COLEMAN

... And Speaking Of Your Health

Can diseased tonsils cause rheumatic fever and heart disease?

The possibility of developing rheumatic fever because of chronically diseased tonsils is not very great. I emphasize this because I find that too many people live in terror of this possibility every time they have an infection of tonsils.

It is a known fact that infections caused by streptococcus bacteria are responsible for rheumatic fever. But there are so many other factors involved in the cause of this disease that the constant fear of it can be far more destructive than a mild attack, even if it does occur.

There are very specific reasons why infected tonsils should be removed. Repeated infection, glands in the neck, high fevers and infections of the ears are sufficient reasons for their removal without the additional burden of fear of rheumatic fever. Sane, sensible reasons for the removal of the tonsils can be presented to the patient without introducing the terrifying suggestion that rheumatic fever "may" occur if they are not taken out.

Since there is some relationship, all foci of infection should be removed. This rule is a healthy one whenever chronic infection persists. Rheumatic fever happens to be a specific disease that involves many distant organs of the body. The joints, the heart and the lungs can be affected as a complication of rheumatic fever.

The operation, tonsillectomy, is so safe that if a streptococcus infection is present the advantages of having the tonsils removed are great, and obviate the possible secondary illnesses.

What is meant by a molluscum infection of the skin? Molluscum contagiosum is a very mild infection of the skin that involves the face, the eyelids, the chest and the inner surface of the thighs.

The exact cause is not known, but it is suspected that poor hygiene and interchanging of towels, personal clothes and bathing suits may be the way it is transmitted.

It is recognized readily by the skin specialist because of the presence of little growths on the skin from which can be extracted a semi-fluid, fatty material. It is important that this condition be treated actively before further infection occurs and leaves scarring of the skin of the face. The tiny tumors are readily removed and the condition must be pursued vigorously while the hygiene is improved.

Are fissures of the rectum the same as hemorrhoids?

No, they are not the same, but sometimes they occur together. Hemorrhoids are really enlarged veins which drain the area around the rectum and are frequently caused by chronic constipation and straining.

A fissure is a cleft or a slit that occurs on the skin or on the lining of the mucous membrane. A fissure-in-ano is a crack in the membrane around the rectum usually due to straining at stool. When neglected it can form a chronic ulcer and when it is persistent, may be associated with bleeding. If the condition is to be cleared up, the underlying cause must be remedied.

Opening lead—five of spades. This deal occurred in the women's Olympiad pair championship played in Amsterdam in 1966. As usual, the scoring was by match points, which frequently places undue emphasis on making an over-trick or two that would be unimportant in rubber bridge.

North-South were Mrs. Peggy Solomon and Mrs. Mary Jane Farrell of the United States, who finished third in the field of 44 pairs representing 18 countries. North's two diamond bid was game-forcing and requested South to bid a four-card major if she had one.

West led a spade. East won and returned a spade, taken by Mrs. Farrell with the king. The contract was relatively safe, so Mrs. Farrell's only concern was to make the maximum number of tricks.

This she proceeded to do by starting out with a successful heart finesse and then cashing five club tricks on which West—who had to keep all her hearts—discarded two spades while dummy discarded three diamonds. This produced the following position:

Gauging the situation perfectly, Mrs. Farrell cashed the queen of spades, forcing West to release a diamond as dummy discarded a heart.

Declarer then finessed the queen of hearts, and, backing her judgment to the hilt, led the eight of diamonds and let it ride. West was forced to win with the ace and return a heart, so that Mrs. Farrell wound up making five notrump. This result brought her 39 match points out of a possible 42, since only three other declarers scored eleven tricks.

The promotions follow the retirement two weeks ago of Chief Maurice Shepherdson.

Nichols, 40, is an 18-year veteran of the department. He and his wife, Bonnie, are the parents of two daughters. They live at 755 Superior street.

Billups, 37, joined the department in 1957. He lives at 381 John street with his wife, Earlean and two sons.

A 21-year-old Benton township man was killed and six members of a Benton township family who lived within two miles of him were injured in an apparent head-on two-car crash near their homes shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday.

Dead was the driver of one car, Steven Lavon Hardy, 21, of 2197 Butler drive. Injured were the other driver, Victor Dean Smith, 32, of 3575 Shortridge road, his wife and four of their children.

Benton township Patrolmen Michael Bowie and Charles Brooks said the collision occurred in the township on Benton Center road about 400 yards south of Red Arrow highway, and that the condition of the cars indicated a head-on crash.

The patrolmen said no skid marks were evident and that it was impossible shortly after the crash to determine the direction the two sedans were traveling. Both were complete losses, they said.

Mr. Hardy was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph.

Smith and his wife, Vera, 31, were admitted to Memorial and later transferred to Memorial hospital in South Bend where this morning they were reported in critical condition.

Their children, Michael, 11, Mark, 6, Karen, 5 and Victor, 2, all were admitted at Mercy hospital in Benton Harbor and listed in fairly good condition.

A spokeswoman at Mercy said Michael suffered a broken arm; Mark was admitted for observation; Karen suffered a broken wrist; and Victor suffered a face cut.

Benton township patrolmen said the number and condition of the persons involved in the crash made it impossible to interview them shortly after the crash. The investigation was to continue.

Steven L. Hardy was born Feb. 21, 1948 in St. Joseph, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Hardy. On Feb. 26, 1966 he married Sandra Craig in Las Vegas, Nev. She survives.

Surviving besides his widow are his parents; one brother Andre V. and a sister Shelia; his grandparents, Mrs. Buna Hardy and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shearer.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Florin funeral home. The Rev. L. I. Ricketts, pastor of the Coloma Church of God, will officiate. Burial will be in Crystal Springs Memorial Park.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

Road Sign Is Missing, Cars Collide

Berrien Crashes Hospitalize Two

Two persons were admitted to Twin Cities area hospitals over the weekend with injuries resulting from auto accidents.

Listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Watervliet Community hospital was Valeria P. Vann, 26, of Route 3, box 158A, South Haven. She was injured Saturday night when her auto collided with a car driven by Judith Ann Lassiter, 23, of 407 Pavone street, Benton Harbor.

Berrien county sheriff Deputy Gary Mitchell said the accident occurred because someone removed the one-lane bridge warning signs on County Line road, in Watervliet township, near the Paw Paw river bridge. Also injured in the accident were Mrs. Vann's children, Ronda, 8, and Randall, 7. Passenger in Miss Lassiter's auto, Duane Houart, 20, of Route 1, Hartford, was treated and released from Watervliet Community hospital.

LINCOLN TWP. CRASH

In another accident, Barbara Fae Wheller, 36, of Stevensville, is listed in fair condition at Mercy hospital after a one car accident early Sunday morning on Ridge road in Lincoln township. Deputies said her car apparently went out of control.

Treated and released from Mercy hospital were Janice Shelby, 25, of route 2, Dowagiac, and her two children, Donald, 1, and Carl, 5. They were in a car which collided with an auto driven by Gerald Leroy Bishop, 32, of Route 1, Meadowbrook road, Benton Harbor. Deputies said the accident occurred Saturday morning at the corner of Meadowbrook and Hilldale roads, Benton township.

Motorcyclist Edward T. Carroll, 17, of route 3, Walkerton, Ind., was treated and released from Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon after an accident at the corner of State and Water streets, in St. Joseph. Police said Carroll took a spill on his motorcycle while turning a corner.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., MONDAY, JULY 22, 1968

AUG. 6 PRIMARY TO BE HELD AS SCHEDULED

GUESS WHAT? — This newspaper's flying photographer, Adolph Hann of Hartford, sighted strange things flying over Indiana recently. When he first saw this geometric pattern on the outskirts of Fort Wayne in northeast Indiana he asked Pilot Normal Wendzel of St. Joseph if he knew what it was. Wendzel didn't and called the Fort Wayne airport by radio to find out. It's a clinic, called—appropriately enough—"Doctors' Plaza." It's situated on US-30 on the northeast side of Fort Wayne, if anyone cares to check.

State Horsemen At Allegan Show

ALLEGAN — Thousands of spectators and horsemen convened at Allegan this weekend for the 23rd annual state horse show.

Over 700 entries in 118 classes came from all over Michigan as well as Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Vermont, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Canada.

Cash prizes as high as $500 and trophies went to winners of speed and action, performance and halter classes.

The three-day event was sanctioned by the Michigan Association of Western Horse Clubs, Inc., and offered an English pleasure class for the first time.

Area residents who took first place prizes were: Wimpy's Showman owned by Jack Starbuck of St. Joseph, first place for AQHA geldings foaled in 1964 or before and AQHA champion gelding; Ruffs Dhandi owned by Judy and Dan McGowan, Benton Harbor for registered half-Arabian at halter; G.R.'s Thunderbud owned by Eric Hauch of Coloma; Frisky owned by Deb Dunkam of Benton Harbor for open pony western saddle, 13 years and under; CoCo Joe owned by C.E. Patterson of South Bend for men's bending and rescue race, open; Khaki owned by Tim Best of Niles for children's cloverleaf; Co-Tone owned by Dave Best, Cassopolis for registered Appaloosa stallions foaled in 1965; Skipper owned by Rick Bassler of Niles for showmanship at halter, 14 through 17; Ta-Teke owned by S. W. Survilla of Otsego for showmanship at halter for 13 years and under; Buy Wheel owned by Jack Chaddock of Stevensville for AQHA youth activity; and Tab Bar owned by Connie Herrall of Cassopolis for barrel racing.

Charged In Death

DETROIT (AP) — A warrant has been issued charging a Detroit woman with the death of a 35-year-old visitor from Brantford, Ont., police said Sunday.

Allan Alford, 35, was found shot to death outside his hotel room Saturday. He had been visiting with a group of about 40 other members of a Canadian veterans organization, police said.

Two Of Our Staffers Re-Elected

Michigan Women's Press Club Meets

Mrs. Richard (Arlis) Derrick and Miss Noel Gersonde, staff writers for this newspaper, were re-elected president and secretary, respectively, of the Michigan Women's Press Club at the group's meeting over the weekend at Oakland University in Pontiac.

Mrs. Derrick's term is for two years and Miss Gersonde's term will expire in July of 1969.

Other officers serving under Mrs. Derrick include: Mrs. Marian Grattan, Jackson Citizen Patriot, first vice president; Mrs. Clark (Vern) Bullen, free lance writer and photographer, Portland, second vice president; and Mrs. Earl (Iris) Lawson, Macomb Daily, Mt. Clemens, treasurer.

Mrs. Margaret Demetrak, assistant editor of News-Tribune Publications, Keego Harbor, will serve as editor of Banner Line, the quarterly publication of the MWPC. She succeeds Mrs. Fred (Ellen) Gondeck of Niles.

Other features of the convention included workshops on layout and writing conducted by Mort Persky and Kurt Luedtke of the Detroit Free Press staff, and a concert featuring the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at the Meadow Brook Music Festival.

Main speaker at the noon luncheon at Oakland Center on Saturday was Fran Harris of WWJ-Radio, TV in Detroit.

The meeting, held Friday through Sunday, was jointly sponsored by Oakland University and the Pontiac Press.

Candidates To Attend GOP Rally

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Republican candidates for Berrien county offices will meet citizens during a GOP rally, which will begin late Tuesday afternoon at Sportsman's park at Arden near here.

Ticket holders will be served a dinner beginning at 6 p.m., according to Mrs. Walter Fischer, publicity chairman for the event, sponsored by the Berrien County Women's Republican club.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — Returning from Fort Wayne to the Twin Cities, Photographer Hann and Pilot Wendzel did another take as they came across this storage tank in Marshall county, due south of South Bend. You're right — they didn't store whiskey that way. It's just the town water tower at Bourbon, Indiana.

CASS COUNTY

Man Hurt, Horse Killed In Weekend Crashes

CASSOPOLIS — A pedestrian was injured and a horse was killed in two separate traffic accidents investigated over the weekend by Cass county sheriff's deputies.

Injured about 1:30 a.m. today was Robert J. Contois, 20, who was walking along Redfield road near Edwardsburg. Contois, who resides on Redfield road, was taken to Elkhart general hospital for treatment of back and leg contusions, said deputies.

Deputies reported that the accident involved an auto operated by Jack Stockman, 49, Edwardsburg. Stockman told officers he saw two men walking on opposite sides of the road and then saw one cross the road, but did not see Stockman at the time of impact. No summonses have been issued.

The horse was reported killed about 9:58 p.m. Sunday, when it strayed onto M-40 near South Crystal Springs road in Pokagon township. Deputies listed the driver of the auto as Terry Gillam, 18, route 2 Decatur. A passenger, Orin Hanan, 15, Decatur, was treated for bruises at Lee Memorial hospital, Dowagiac, and released. Deputies said it has not been determined who owned the horse.

High Court Clears Up Question

Uphold State Law Extending Term Of Township Officers

LANSING — A threat that all township offices would be thrown into this year's already-disturbed election routine has been removed by a Michigan Supreme Court ruling late last week.

The high court overturned an Oakland county ruling that could have forced postponement of the Aug. 6 primary.

Six justices of the Supreme Court held the Legislature was within its constitutional limits when it passed a law providing that township officers elected for two-year terms in 1966 could continue in office until November 1970.

Had the high court upheld the May ruling of Oakland County Circuit Judge William J. Beer, who declared the law was unconstitutional, it likely would have forced county election officials to reprint their ballots for the primary—now less than three weeks away—or could have forced postponement of the primary.

"I don't even want to contemplate what it would have meant if the Supreme Court had ruled the other way," one state elections division official said this morning.

For a time after Judge Beer's ruling, township officers across the state were being advised to be ready to file petitions to run for office this year.

The Supreme Court accepted a speedy appeal to its jurisdiction, however, and issued a temporary order staying the effectiveness of Judge Beer's decision until it could rule.

Under the legislative act, a certain few township offices are up for election this year. Trustees who were chosen to four-year terms in 1964 are up for election this year, and persons appointed to fill vacancies in township offices before June of this year must also run this year.

Rubber Co. Union Vote Is Delayed

Hearing Tuesday At South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — A union certification vote at the idled South Haven Rubber Company has been postponed for a second time.

Dale Buyee, personnel manager at the plant which has been strangled by a strike by members of the UAW Local 1425 since Feb. 2, reported that a controversy over which employees are eligible to vote in the election has forced postponement on the election originally slated for this Thursday.

The postponement was ordered by the National Labor Relations Board and instead a hearing has been set for Tuesday, July 30, at 10 a.m. in the city recreation building clear the problem.

Another certification vote, scheduled for March 4, was cancelled after unfair labor practice charges were filed by several employees.

The current postponement was ordered by the NLRB in Washington following an appeal from the company.

Children To Register

BUCHANAN — Richard Dougherty, superintendent of the Buchanan Public Schools, urges all new families in the Buchanan school district who have children of school age to register their children for classes as soon as possible so that the fall schedules may be determined.

All registrations are being taken at the high school building. Children of kindergarten through sixth grade are to register in Room 112, and those who will be in the seventh through 12th grades are to register at the office of Ellis May, assistant high school principal.

Dougherty said approximately 155 children will be entering kindergarten classes this fall.

RIFLE IS STOLEN: St. Joseph Patrolman Dennis Soucek, while on routine patrol Saturday, discovered not only the rifle missing from this World War I doughboy statue, but the hand holding the rifle and bayonet as well. The bronze doughboy located in lake bluff park, St. Joseph, has been the victim of pranks before, according to police. After the left hand and rifle were replaced following damage December 1965, the bayonet was snapped off the rifle in March 1966, police said. (Staff photo)

New Telephone Rate Petition

Bloom'dale Seeks To Offer Single-Party Service

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomingdale Telephone Co., Inc., has re-applied to the Michigan Public Service Commission to discontinue multi-party service and provide single-party service at an increased rate throughout its franchise area.

A hearing on the company's applications will be held in the hearing room of the Michigan Public Service Commission on Monday, July 29, at 10 a.m. in the Lewis Cass building in Lansing.

The company first applied to the commission in February and the request was denied by the Public Service Commission on June 20 on the grounds that rate for the new service was too low to guarantee financial stability of the company in the future.

The Bloomingdale Telephone company applied for a hearing on June 25, and amended the application on July 17 asking to either increase its rates for one-party business and one-party residence service; or to meter service for residents only.

The new rates, if approved by the commission, would not go into effect until the new service begins, which would be approximately one year after approval by the Public Service Commission.

Under the alternate proposal No. 1, present rates for a business one party is $7.25 which would be changed to $10.25 for unlimited local calls or an increase of $3. Residence one party rates are now $4.75 which would change to $6.50 for unlimited local calls for an increase of $1.75.

Under alternate proposal No. 2 present rates for business one party are $7.25 per month which would be changed to $10.50 for unlimited calls for an increase of $3.25. Metered residence one-party service is not currently available. If the proposal is approved, cost for metered residence one party service would be $5.75 per 50 calls or attempted calls per month with an additional 10 cents per call or attempt in excess of the 50 calls or attempts.

Firemen said that the fire apparently caused by a cigarette, was confined to the front room of the single story home. They would not immediately estimate the cost of the fire but said there was extensive smoke damage.

The home owned by a Harold Freeman, was being occupied by Mrs. Novella Murphy and her four children, none of whom were injured. The Murphys escaped from the fire through a bedroom window.

EAU CLAIRE—The sign in front of the Eau Claire high school which lists coming school events was damaged recently by vandals.

School Supt. Don K. Silcox discovered the damage while driving by the school. The sign, the type which must be unlocked to change the wording, had been broken into and the letters rearranged into obscene words.

No dollar estimate has been yet placed on the damage. The sign had been donated to the school recently by the Irving Rosenberg family in memory of their daughter, Cheryl, a junior high school student who died this spring.
